FourthLink Announces Improved Scheduling Tools for Professional Services Firms

FourthLink's Resource Process Manager™ now includes a powerful new set of assignment screens designed to make the job of the busy professional scheduler easier and more efficient.

Newton, MA (PRWEB) November 28, 2007—In response to overwhelming market demand, Resource Process Manager™ now includes robust tools that allow schedulers to easily process requests for individuals, teams, or resources by role, skill, and/or availability. Finally, busy project or firm managers can easily see assignments by client, project, and task for three full months, and then communicate effortlessly with field staff through FourthLink's automated notification system.

Resource Process Manager™ allows users to establish projects; identify tasks for them; locate available resources with appropriate skill sets; and request them. FourthLink's automated notification system e-mails all involved in the assignment process, and, if resources accept and managers approve, schedules are published.

Resource Process Manager™ offers an integrated solution for assignment, selection, scheduling, time/expense entry, and reporting. Because clients and resources only have to be set up once, and time entry is automatically posted to projects, the resulting unified data management system streamlines and optimizes the entire resource management process.

“We want our clients to enjoy the benefits of superior scheduling and project management coupled with the advantages of simplified web-based time entry tools and one-click access to actionable management information,” says company president, Kenneth A. Leeser. “Resource Process Manager™'s integrated suite of tools provides professional services firms with the integrated, real-time data and control they need and the ease-of-use they want.”
